WEALTHY PIONEER PASSES TO REST

A. F. Redemeyer, Banker and Capitalist, Dies at His Home in This City Sunday.

Sunday morning at 6:30 Augustus Frederick Redemeyer passed to rest. The deceased, in his 76th year, had been fighting for months with dropsy, and the news of his death was not unexpected by his friends. Indomitable energy and will power cannot beat back the grim destroyer.

The funeral took place from the late residence Tuesday afternoon and was conducted according to the rites of the Odd Fellows, the deceased being a member of Ukiah Lodge No. 174.

A. F. Redemeyer was born in Hanover, Germany, October 25, 1828, While yet a boy he emigrated from his native land coming to St. Louis, where at the age of 12 he became the apprentice of a wheelwright and learned the trade.

The stories from the golden state attracted him and in 1849 he crossed the plains in company with a number of other hardy pioneers. He located at Old Sonora and followed his trade until 1862. The beautiful valleys of California had not escaped his notice and he returned to St. Louis where he purchased a band of cattle, recrossing the plains the folloing year and locating in Bennetts valley near Santa Rosa.

There, in 1854, he married Miss Lydia Merritt, who preceded him. Of this union five children were born—Luther, John, Otis, May and Emma—all of whom survive.

From here he moved to Soda spring, Long valley, and continued in the stock business until 1868. From there he moved with his family to this city where he has followed the banking and insurance business for a number of years. A few months ago he closed his private banking business and rented his building to the Savings Bank of Mendocino county in which he was a stock holder.

The deceased inheriting the traits of a sturdy German parentage and taking advantage of the opportunities offered by Mendocino county, had long been one of the wealthiest men in the county, and his estate is estimated at $350,000, all but about $20,000 of which was divided between the members of the family before his death.

What more can be said of a man than that he was honest in his dealings with his fellow men. The honesty and integrity of A. F. Redemeyer had never been disputed and although he made no public display of charity it is known that he aided many a deserving cause. His memory will be kindly cherished in many hearts.

A Successful Enterprise.

Manager Holtzhauser of the Ukiah milling company reports that the flour mill has been started this week for a month's run. Mr. Holtzhauser is an uptodate miller and has had remarkable success with the plant and succeeded in building up an excellent business, the flour being pronounced equal to any imported article. Mr. Holzhauser reports that when he first started he encountered considerable prejudice among the housewives as they claimed that home made flour had never been a success. After the people understood that the mill had been completely renovated and new machinery put in throughout the trade commenced to build up. There is no reason why flour shou'd be imported when bread stuff of an equal quality can be bought at home and it is very probable that in a few years the demand for home flour will exclude all other brands.

Redemeyer Estate.

Dr. G. W. Stout is named as executor in the will of the late A. F. Redemeyer. The estate consists of about $20,000 in bonds and securities, the remainder of the estate having been deeded.

$200 FOR STONE IN SLOAT MONUMENT

The board of supervisors appropriated $200 at this session for the purpose of having a Mendocino county stone laid in the Sloat monument at Monterey. It was a very commendable move and will be but a fitting tribute to the man who possessed the keen judgment and moral courage to forecast the future and plant the stars and stripes in California. But for this act of Rear Admiral John Drake Sloat in taking possession at Monterey on July 7, 1846, several of the richest states would have been lost to the union.

John McMurry, a member of the Masonic Veteran association and a personal friend of Major E. A. Sherman, secretary of the Sloat Monument association, was instrumental in securing this appropriation. With Judge Mannon and Attorney Ruddock he appeared before the board and asked them to take action in the matter. Sonoma and Lake counties have already made similar appropriations. The stone of the former is already laid and the latter will be placed on the 23rd inst.

The Sloat monument is at Monterey and stands on a site fifty feet square, the base being twenty-four feet square. The total height of the monument will be thirty-one feet, representing that California was the thirty-first state admitted. A statue of Comodore Sloat will surmount the base.

CITY GENTLEMEN RENT NEW HOTEL

Henry Marks reports that he has rented his hotel to two San Francisco gentlemen, Messrs. A. Malpas and B. Crosgrove. The gentlemen visited town this week and were much pleased with the elegant new hostelry and stated that they were greatly impressed with the future of Ukiah as a hotel town. Both gentlemen are first class hotel men and were engaged in business in Los Gatos for a number of years. They expect to expend in the neighborhood of $15,000 in furnishings and will take charge as soon as the building is finished, which Mr. Marks reports will be by the 1st of April. Mr. Marks is very enthusiastic and states that the hotel will be second to none in the state when completed. It will certainly be a great ornament to State street.

Death of Fred S. Dashiell.

Fred S. Dashiells, one of Mendocino's pioneer teachers, passed away yesterday at the county hospital in San Louis Obispo. The deceased was a prominent educator here in early days, having taught in Sanel, Anderson, Ukiah and Potter valleys and at Willits. He was about 76 years old. The deceased never forgot his early days in Mendocino county and frequently wrote to Supervisor Smith and J. C. Ruddock. Mr. Smith states that Mr. Dashiell was his first school master. He says that in '59 the school organized in this city was short of pupils and that while eight were required only seven appeared on the roll. After consulting Mr. Dashiell, Mrs. Smith consented to let Chas., who was only five, attend.

Former Ukiahites' Bereavement.

Andrew L., the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, died Monday from injuries received in a quarrel with other boys. He suffered a great deal but was brave and patient and for several days refused to tell the cause of his injuries lest he should be called a telltale. The funeral takes place today at 1 o'clock, at the Catholic church. Mr. and Mrs. Miller have the sympathy of the whole community, for their bereavement is particularly pathetic, and they have lost two other children since coming to Lakeport.—Bee.

DR. KING REFUSES TO ADMIT GARRAD

Garrad, the escaped patient from the Mendocino State hospital who killed a deputy sheriff at Guerneville recently, is causing Sheriff Grace of Sonoma county no end of worry. After a long and dangerous chase the murderer was captured and Sheriff Grace accompanied him to the asylum Tuesday, thinking to end his difficulties by turning him over to that institution.

As the man is dangerous and a murderer, Dr. King refused to admit him under the statute covering such cases. Grace brought him back to this city and lodged him in jail returning to Santa Rosa Wednesday morning where Garrad will be lodged in jail to await trial for murder.

Garrad has threatened to kill Dr. King, Sheriff Grace, Judge Seawell and several other officials. He is a dangerous man and has killed several people who have incurred his displeasure.

At The Opera House.

The Bates-Watson company have been playing to crowded houses this week at Wilson & York's opera house. The company is a particularly strong one and has received much praise from the theatre going public. Mr. Katsenjamer and his kids will be the matinee tomorrow afternoon. Let the childred go.

S F & N SURVEYORS BEING CALLED IN

It is reported that the preliminary survey for the San Francisco and Northwestern railway company between San Francisco and Eureka has been practically completed. Last week one party was working in this valley. Surveys have been run over a dozen different routes in this, Humboldt and Lake counties with a view of getting an easy grade over the mountains. Two of the five parties that have been at work have already been called in and the others will follow during the month. It looks very much as if this company meant business and the result of these surveys will determine the route to be selected. The preliminary surveys have cost nearly $100,000 it is said.

Death Claims Frank Sweeney.

Frank Sweeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Sweeney of Willits died in San Francisco January 29, after suffering for several years with consumption. The deceased was a particularly bright young man and was well known and liked in Potter where he had spent the greater portion of his life. For the past four months his health has been very poor and he had been traveling in the southern part of the state. Finding that his health was not improving he decided to return to this county but was too ill to travel further than San Francisco. The remains were shipped to this city Saturday night and the funeral was held in Potter Sunday under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Foresters of which the deceased was a member.

The Weger & Smith ranch in Reeves Mill canyon was sold to W. W. Van Arsdale Tuesday. The property contains about 2200 acres of the finest range in the county.

It adjoins the Walker valley ranch also owned by Mr. Van Arsdale, and will greatly add to the value of that ranch. The place is well watered, Reeves creek, a beautiful trout stream, running through it. Part of the stock was included in the deal and the price reported in the neighborhood of $20,000.

Electrical Engineers.

H. Ferguson and Will Grover have formed a partnership for the purpose of handling electrical supplies and wiring buildings. Both of the young gentlemen are well known, Mr. Ferguson being the engineer of the light plant and Mr. Grover is a popular local electrician. James Farley, a Pioneer, Dead.

Again death's angel has been among us and released from his long suffering one more of California's pioneers, James Farley. Mr. Farley died at eleven o'clock Friday night, January 29th. He had been afflicted with Bright's disease for over six years and now at last his strong constitution has given away.

Mr. Farley was a jovial, big hearted man, one who made many friends easily and kept them. Children all loved him and rich and poor, old and young welcomed his cheery presence with gladness.

Mr. Farley was a native of Illinois and was seveny-one years of age New Years day. He had lived in Virginia, Missouri, Iowa, and at the age of seventeen came to Oregon and then to California. He returned to his eastern home during those early days of Indian massacre, was married, and made the second trip across the plains. Later with his family he went east but returned after a short visit and worked in California ever since.

He leaves a brother, two sisters, a wife, two sons, eight daughters, numerous grand children, several great grand children and innumerable friends.

The funeral services took place at the old Farley home in Long valley at eleven Monday morning and later Grandpa Farley was placed in his last resting place in the local cemetery.

Children

Have "eyes bigger than their stomachs," according to an old saying. They overeat themselves, and are tempted by all sorts of injurious and indigestible edibles. As a consequence the foundation of serious stomach trouble is often laid in childhood.

For children with "weak" digestion or whose stomachs are diseased, Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery may be confidently recommended. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the nourishment contained in food is perfectly assimilated and the puny child is built up by food into a condition of robust health.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Mrs. Ella Gardner, of Waterview, Middlesex Co., Va., writes: "My little daughter is enjoying splendid health. I am glad I found a doctor who could cure my child. Whenever she feels badly I give her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she is soon all right. She took twelve bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight bottles of 'Pellets,' and one bottle of of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and she is well. We thank God for your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE STROLLERS

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM,
Author of "Under the Rose"

"An outlaw! An outcast!" exclaimed the patroon, stung beyond endurance by his thoughts.

Still no reply; only more hurried footsteps. Around them sounded a gentle rustling. A lizard scrambled out of their path through the crackling leaves. A bat or some other winged creature suddenly whirred before them and vanished. They had now approached the gate, through which they passed and found themselves on the road leading directly to the city, whose lights had already begun to twinkle in the dusk.

"Is he dead?"

The cheering rumble of a carriage and the aspect of the not far distant town quickened her spirits and imparted elasticity to her footsteps. Upon the land baron they produced an opposite effect, for he was obviously reluctant to abandon the interview, however unsatisfactory it might be. There was nothing to say, and yet he was loath to leave her. There was nothing to accomplish, and yet he wished to remain with her. For this reason as they drew near the city his mood became darker, like the night around them. Instinctively she felt the turbulent passions stirring in his bosom. His sudden silence, his dogged footsteps, reawakened her misgivings. Furtively she regarded him, but his eyes were fixed straight before him on the soft luster above the city, the reflection of the lights, and she knew and mistrusted his thoughts. Although she found his silence more menacing than his words, she could think of nothing to say to break the spell, and so they continued to walk mutely side by side. An observer seeing them beneath the cypress, a lovers' promenade, with its soft, enfolding shadows, would have taken them for a well matched couple who had no need for language.

But when they had emerged from that romantic lane and entered the city the land baron breathed more freely. She was now surrounded by movement and din; the seclusion of the country gave way to the stir of the city; she was no longer dependent on his good offices; his role of protector had ended when they left the cypress walk behind them.

His brow cleared; he glanced at her with ill concealed admiration; he noticed with secret pride the attention she attracted from passersby, the sidelong looks of approval that followed her through the busy streets. The land baron expanded into his old self; he strode at her side, gratified by the scrutiny she invited; assurance radiated from his eyes like some magnetic heat; he played at possession willfully, perversely. "Why not?" whispered Hope. "A woman's mind is shifting ever. Her fancy—a breath! The other is gone. Why"—

"It was not accident my being in the cemetery, Miss Carew," said Mauville, suddenly covering her with his glance. Meeting her look of surprise unflinchingly, he continued: "I followed you there; through the streets, into the country! My seeing you first was chance, my presence in the burial ground the result of that chance. The inevitable result!" he repeated softly. "As inevitable as life! Life; what is it? Influences which control us; forces which bind us! It is you, or all; you or nothing!"

She did not reply. His voice, vibrating with feeling, touched no answering chord. Nevertheless, a new, inexplicable wave of sorrow moved her. It might be he had cared for her as sincerely as it was possible for his wayward heart to care for any one. Perhaps time would yet soften his faults and temper his rashness. With that shade of sorrow for him there came compassion as well; compassion that overlooked the past and dwelt on the future.

She raised her steady eyes. "Why should it be 'I or nothing,' as you put it?" she finally answered slowly. "Influences may control us in a measure, but we may also strive for something. We can always strive."

"For what? For what we don't want? That's the philosophy of your moralists, Miss Carew," he exclaimed. "That's your modern ethics of duty. Playing tricks with happiness! The game isn't worth the candle. Or, if you believe in striving," he added, half resentfully, half imploringly, "strive to care for me but a little. But a little!" he said again. "I, who once wanted all and would have nothing but all, am content to ask, to plead, for but a little."

"I see no reason," she replied wearily, yet not unkindly, "why we should not be friends."

"Friends!" he answered bitterly. "I do not beg for a loaf, but a crumb, yet you refuse me that! I will wait. Only a word of encouragement. Will you not give it?"

She turned and looked into his eyes, and before she spoke he knew what her answer would be.

"How can I?" she said simply. "Why should I promise something I can never fulfill?"

He held her glance as though loath to have it leave him.

"May I see you again?" he asked abruptly.

She shook her head. His gaze fell, seeing no softening in her clear look.

"You are well named," he repeated, more to himself than to her. "Constance! You are constant in your dislikes as well as your likes."

"I have no dislike for you," she replied. "It seems to have been left behind me somewhere."

"Only indifference, then," he said dully.

"No; not indifference!"

"You do care what—may become of me?"

"You should do so much—be so much in the world," she answered thoughtfully.

"Sans peur et sans reproche!" he cried, half amused, half cheerlessly. "What a pity I met you! Too late!"

They were now at the broad entrance of the brilliantly lighted hotel. Several loungers, smoking their after dinner cigars, gazed at the couple curiously.

"Mauville's a lucky dog," said one.

"Yes; he was born with a silver spoon," replied the person addressed.

As he passed through the envious throng the land baron had regained his self command, although his face was marked with an unusual pallor. In his mind one thought was paramount—that the walk begun at the burial ground was drawing to an end, their last walk, the finale of all between them. Yet he could call to mind nothing further to say. His story had been told, the conclusion reached. She, too, had spoken, and he knew she would never speak differently. Bewildered and unable to adjust his new and strange feelings, it dawned upon him he had never understood himself and her, that he had never really known what love was, and he stood abashed, confronted by his own ignorance. Passion, caprice, fancy—he had seen depth in their shallows, but now looked down and discerned the pebbly bottom. All this and much more surged through his brain as he made his way through the crowd and, entering the corridor of the hotel, took formal leave of the young girl at the stairway.

"Good night, Miss Carew," he said gravely.

"Good night," she replied. And then on the steps she turned and looked down at him, extending her hand. "Thank you!"

That half timid, low "thank you!" he knew was all he would ever receive from her. He hardly felt the hand clasp. He was hardly conscious when she turned away.

Mob at Havana Vents Its Ill Feeling Against America.

Havana, Feb. 2.—United States Minister Squiers has called the attention of the Cuban government to the action of the rioters at Cienfuegos, who (continuing the disturbances which broke out as the result of disputes over the election of registers on the previous day) vented their ill-feeling by flinging mud upon the United States coat of arms hanging over the entrance of the United States consulate, practically covering the escutcheon with mud. Consul Baehr protested to the local authorities and notified Minister Squiers.

The minister called on president Palma and made representations that the Cienfuegos authorities should not content themselves with an apology, but should apprehend and punish the perpetrators of the insult.

NEW GOVERNOR OF ISLANDS.

Philippines New Executive Inaugurated With Imposing Ceremonies.

Manila, Feb. 2.—Governor Luke E Wright and Vice Governor Henry C Ide have been inaugurated. There wa an imposing demonstration, including a brilliant military pageant, about 3000 troops being in line.

After taking the oath of office Governor Wright delivered his inaugural address. It was a straightforward speech, dealing with the most important interests of the islands. He invited attention to the improvements which had been accomplished in the Philippines under American rule, and declared his intention of adhering to the principles of the Taft administration. He urged Americans to establish cordial relations with the Filipinos, who must constitute their chief customers.

In conclusion Governor Wright asked for the sympathetic co-operation of all classes, who, he said, were assured equal opportunities for advancement.

SNOW AT GILROY.

San Jose, Feb. 2.—For the first time in twenty-eight years, according to the chronicler of the "oldest inhabitant," snow fell yesterday in the city of Gilroy, located in the southern porton of Sainta Clara county. The fall lasted but a few minutes, the snow melting in a short time. The cold was not sufficient to work any injury to the fruit crop.

CANADIAN INDIANS.

An Old Trader Gives Evidence to Their Unvarying Honesty.

Says a man who has had some twenty years of experience in trading with Canadian Indians, "In all my woods life I have never known but one Indian liar." A cache, or provision station, is left unattended with perfect safety, for on the entirety of its stock may depend the life of many a man.

He who leaves provisions must find them on his return, for he may reach them starving, and the length of his out journey may depend on his certainty of relief at this point on his in journey. So men passing touch not his hoard, for some day they may be in the same case.

"One comes unexpectedly upon a birch hanging from a tree limb," says the old trader, "or a whole bunch of snowshoes depending beneath the fans of a spruce or a tangle of steel traps thrust into the crevice of a tree root or a supply of pork and flour swathed like an Egyptian mummy lying in state on a high bier. These things we have passed as reverently as symbols of a people's trust in its kind.

"The same sort of honesty holds in regard to smaller things. I have never hesitated to leave in my camp firearms, fishing rods, utensils valuable from a woods point of view, even a watch or money. Not only have I never lost anything in that manner, but once an Indian lad followed me some miles after the morning's start to restore to me half a dozen trout flies I had accidentally left behind."

Parnell's Superstitions.

Charles Stewart Parnell was one of the strongest men that ever lived, but he had numberless superstitions. Once a colleague of his brought him the draft of a bill to the cell he was then occupying in Kilmainham. It was in thirteen clauses. Parnell was horrified. He insisted that somehow or other a fourteenth clause should be added. Once Parnell saw a colleague with three lights in his bedroom. He was quite uneasy until he saw one of the lights put out. I traveled with him once when he had a scarf that had been presented to him by a lady admirer. There was some green in the scarf. One of his superstitions was that green was an unlucky color. He used to say, half joke, whole earnest, that all the misfortunes of Ireland came from the fact that her color was green. He was very much put out by this scarf. It was in the days when the habeas corpus was suspended in Ireland and we were sleeping on the mail boat at Kingstown and were not to start for Holyhead till next morning. He was quite sure the green scarf would have us arrested before we left in the morning.—M. A. P.

Christian Church Notes.

The revival began with large audiences Sunday which have kept up during the week, and the interest has deepened with each service. There have been some added to the church and indications are that a large number will yet do so.

The addition of a piano to that of the organ and cornet as support to the large chorus makes the song service enjoyable.

There is great times in store for the children at their "String Meeting" Sunday afternoon at 3:30. All children under 12 or 14 should attend.

You should make extra efforts to attend these meetings all next week. Sunday evening will be largely given over to the song service.

A DANCE IN THE KLONDIKE

Joaquin Miller's Story and the Way He Clinched It.

At one of his lectures just after his return from the Klondike Joaquin Miller told the following story: "One night I was invited to a dance in a miner's cabin, and while Bill Dalton scraped away on his fiddle we just hoed it down. But the miners tramped in and out so much between dances that before midnight the ladies declared the floor was so slippery they couldn't dance another step unless something was done. Then something was done that never was possible in mining days in California. Each miner gallantly opened his buckskin powder pouch and sprinkled gold dust on the floor! And this was repeated throughout the night. And in the morning, ladies and gentlemen, those miners never troubled themselves about sweeping up that gold dust. They just hitched up their dog sleds and rode away."

At this point of Miller's narrative there was a slight agitation in the audience, an ominous sign of incredulity, but Miller was equal to it. With a wave of his hand toward one of the boxes, he said, "And my old friend up there in the box, Captain John Healy, will substantiate what I say."

It was a master stroke of the poet, for the house burst into applause and greatly embarrassed the modest millionaire mining and railroad promoter of Alaska, who unsuspectingly had accepted Miller's invitation to attend the lecture in the afternoon.

WORDS WITHOUT RHYME.

Some Difficulties the Poets Cannot Overcome.

In a well known musical comedy the kingly poet of a mythical state makes a frantic demand on his subjects for a rhyme with sarsaparilla. The question calls to mind the surprisingly few words there are in the comparatively harsh English tongue, with its plethora of consonants, for which there are no rhyming equivalents. Sarsaparilla, as a manufactured name, is hardly a fair example, but there are said to be only three familiar words of everyday speech which loom up ferociously before the student of metrical possibilities. They are silver, month and carpet. Of these silver alone remains absolutely unassailable, for Swinburne has in one of his poems a word of Greek derivation which may be said at a pinch to rhyme with month, and W. S. Gilbert of "Pinafore" and "Mikado" fame has in the "Bab Ballads" ingeniously conquered carpet as follows:

One day that Turk he sickened sore,
Which threw him straight into a sharp pet.
He threw himself upon the floor
And rolled about his carpet.

The same author has also established a record in "Patience" for rhyming unfamiliar words that look extremely formidable to the novice. The verse runs:

When from the poet's plinth
The amorous calocynth, etc.,

which, although it be very beautiful, is hardly intelligible.

But silver is still obstinate, and the young Musaen who ends his first line with that fatal word had better stick to blank verse.—Philadelphia Record.

Music the Kernel of Welsh Nature.

Music is the very soul and kernel of the Welsh nature. A musical ear is the national birthright. Every Welsh preacher who migrates to an English church finds the greatest difficulty in abstaining from that weird, peculiar intonation of his sermon which is known as the hwyl and which is often strange and objectionable to English ears.

A remarkable and subtle fact which will be interesting to English readers and at the same time significant of the sensitiveness of the Welsh musical ear is that it is positive discord to many among the Welsh congregations if the minister, in 'giving out' the first verse of the hymn, does not so pitch his voice that it shall be in harmony with the key in which the tune has preliminarily been played by the instrumentalist. —Westminister Review.

TAFT MAKES REPORT.

Conditions in the Philippines Gradually Improving.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The president yesterday sent to the senate the annual report of the Philippine commission, including the report of the civil governor of the Philippines and the reports of heads of the executive departments, for the period ended December 23, 1903. The report of the commission contains a detailed statement by the auditor of the islands of expenditures under the appropriation of $3,000,000 for the relief of distress in the islands.

Taft says the year was one of much suffering among the people of the Philippines on account of a short food supply, but that the worst is passed. While he does not consider the future as bright as it might be, he believes we are beginning an era in the history of the islands which, with the assistance of proper tariff reduction in the United States and proper navigation laws for the islands, will be one of decided developments.

Speaking of the conditions in the islands, Taft says that at ont time has there been less ladronism than when the report was written, December 10, 1903.

Excursions to the East.

Those contemplating an eastern trip will be interested to know that the Rio Grande system is operating via the scenic line of the world daily excursion cars through from the Pacific coast without change to Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and intermediate points. These are the Pullman ordinary or tourist sleepers, provided with comfortable berths, bedding and linen of the Pullman standard. They have separate lavatories, are well lighted and heated, and in fact only differ from the more expensive standard cars in the character of the upholstery and inside finishing. Besides the colored porter, an excursion manager accompanies the cars for the sole purpose of looking after the welfare and comfort of his party. There is no charge beyond the regular railroad and sleeping car rates to those who accompany these excursions. If you are interested, let us quote you the lowest rates and give you more details, and also furnish you with illustrated books descriptive of the grandest mountain scenery on the American continent. J. D. Mansfield, General Agent, 625 Market street, San Francisco, Cal.

ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain-habit puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes crooks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a worried expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

The complaints above named all yield to the action of Benson's Porous Plasters, and quickly too. Not only those, but colds and coughs, kidney and liver affections, all congestions and muscular strains, diseases of the chest, asthma and all ailments which are open to external treatment. It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plasters, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each. Seabury & Johnson, Mfg. Chemists, N.Y.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Strange Disappearance of Henry Paulsen Cleared.

Redding, Feb. 2.—Two boys out hunting a mile and a half above Weaverville found a human skull. In the mouth were several gold-filled teeth These they knocked out and took home with them as trophies of the hunt. Older people on seeing the teeth came to the conclusion that the lads had found part of the remains of Harry Paulsen, who mysteriously disappeared on September 28th. A dentist identified the teeth, and thirty men yesterday started to search for the rest of the skeleton.

Half a mile from where the skull had been found the skeleton was discovered. It was recognized as that of Harrry Paulsen by the fragments of clothing and a hat near by. A revolver was found near at hand. Paulsen had evidently committed suicide. A bullet hole in the skull told the story. The skull had been carried half a mile by the coyotes.

The skull shows that a bullet had been sent crashing through it. There is no doubt that Paulseen committed suicide.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Congress Will Be Asked to Keep Navy Yard Busy.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Vigorous telegrams have been received by Senator Perkins from the Vallejo Chamber of Commerce and others, asking for an additional appropriation in order to prevent the discharge of Mare Island navy yard employes, especially in the steam engineering and construction bureaus.

On account of extra and unexpected repairs during the past year, there is a deficiency in the appropriation of about $700,000, which has forced the department to cut down the work at Mare Island by one-third, while at the Atlantic Coast yards only one-half of the usual work is being done.

Senator Perkins had a conference with Secretary Moody and Rear-Admiral Converse yesterday, at which it was decided to ask congress to appropriate $700,000 in one of the deficiency bills to keep the navy yard going. If this is not done, many employes will be discharged before the regular appropriation becomes available.

BIG LINERS COLLIDE

Steamer Bristol City Sunk by the Colorado.

New York, Feb. 1.—Rammed by the steamer Colorado of the steamship Boston City of the Bristol City line was sunk in the ship channel near the Southwest Spit and about midway between Sandy Hook and Staten Island Sunday.

No lives were lost, but only the difference of a few turns of the screws of the unlucky vessel saved her from being blown out of the water. Had the engine room been suddenly deluged the boilers would have exploded.

The collision tore away twenty-five feet of the port side of the boat, cutting twelve feet below the water line and only about twenty feet from the engine compartment.

The vessel is probably a total loss. The question of blame will be much disputed. The collision occurred in sight of the American liner St. Louis, which was rounding the Hook on her way to New York.

DUCK HUNTERS DROWNED.

Go Through the Ice at Mud Lake, Nevada.

Carson, Nev., Feb. 2.—News has reached this city from Sheridan that two young men of Markleeville, Alpine county, California, have been drowned in Mud lake, a few miles above Sheridan. The men were Luke Olds and Frank Munroe. As near as can be learned the men were duck hunting on the lake.

While the men were crawling out on the ice it gave way and neither of them were able to reach shore.

Luke Olds arrived in this city about six weeks ago, with his wife and little boy, from Montana to visit relatives in Markleeville. He was about 25 years old.

Frank Munroe was 23 years old and was the son of Lewis Munroe, a well-known resident of Markleeville, and a single man. As soon as the news reached Sheridan rescuing parties were at once organized. Efforts to recover the bodies have so far been unsuccessful.

FIRE IS STILL A MYSTERY.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Two detectives, present for a week in the guise of guests at the Grand Palace hotel have failed to solve the puzzling circumstances surrounding four fires that have occurred in the building in a fortnight. The latest fire occurred within twelve hours after detectives were taken away for other work.

The police have reached the conclusion that a pyromaniac is a guest at the hotel.

POULTRYMEN ORGANIZE.

Santa Rosa, Feb. 2.—A number of poultrymen, who have formed themselves into an association, filed articles of incorporation with County Clerk Fred L. Wright yesterday. It is known as the Pacific Coast Poultry and Produce company and is composed in part of former members of the Sonoma County Co-operative Poultry association.

FOUND THIRTY DEAD

Surveying Party Makes Gruesome Discovery.

Las Vegas, N. M., Feb. 1.—Thirty bodies of men who have perished in the Nevada desert from thirst and hunger have been found by a body of surveyors, the advance party of surveyors of the new San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad. The victims met their deaths within a few weeks, according to all the evidence obtainable and the condition of the corpses when discovered. They died while attempting to cross the waste area that stretches for a distance of eighty miles from Las Vegas to the California line. Many others lost their lives while trying to make this journey without adequate supplies of food and water, but apparently the desert has claimed many more lives during the past month than ever before.

BRIGHT CALIFORNIA YOUTH.

Led His Class at Annapolis for Four Years.

Washington, Feb. 2.—An especially interesting incident of the graduation exercises at the Naval academy, Annapolis, yesterday was that connected with the delivery of a diploma to Midshipman David McDougall Lebreton, a native of San Francisco, who led his class in scholastic standing for the whole four years. Midshipman Lebreton has been confined in the hospital for nearly a week with a severe attack of the mumps, and until yesterday it was believed he would not be able to go to the armory to receive his diploma.

He is much better now, however, and at his earnest solicitation the suregon in charge allowed him to attend with his classmates.
